ILLUSTRATED BIOGRAPHIES OF THE GREAT ARTISTS.

Specially prepared for Schools, Amateurs, and Students of Art.

From the "TIMES."—"Few things in the way of small books upon recent subjects, usually cheap and necessarily brief, have been hitherto so well suited as these biographies of the Great Masters in Art. They afford just what a very large proportion of readers in these hurried times wish to be provided with—a sort of concentrated food for the mind."

From the "ART JOURNAL."—"A series of books which can scarcely fail, for various reasons, to be of the greatest use to Art Students of every kind, the first and primary reason being their 'handiness,' for they occupy a place between the meager sketches one generally finds in biographical dictionaries and the more elaborate histories which have been written for scholars and students. It has been the intention of the author to collect every thing of interest concerning the life and works of the artist, and to give it in a form which can be easily understood by the student."

Each Volume contains many Illustrations, including a Portrait of the Master, and is strongly bound in decorated cloth.

Crown 8vo, 3s. 6d. per Vol., unless marked otherwise.

MR. JUSTICE STEPHEN'S NEW BOOKS.

A HISTORY and GENERAL VIEW of the CRIMINAL LAW of ENGLAND. By Sir JAMES FITZ JAMES STEPHEN, K.C.S.I., D.C.L., a Judge of the High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division. 3 vols., 8vo, 48s.

"This is the first time, we believe, though it is strange to have to say it, that the history of any great branch of English law with the exception of purely Constitutional law . . . has been thoroughly worked out; and the task has been a formidable one, for almost everything had to be done from the beginning. Mr. Justice Stephen has made it his business to track the true sources of the law through all the vast and miscellaneous mass of superincumbent comment and tradition. The results of all this labour, a labour which can only be called enormous, are presented in an orderly and natural arrangement, and with an almost punctilious absence of technicality, so that not only are they intelligible to any reader of fair capacity and industry, but misunderstanding is hardly possible."

A DIGEST of the LAW of CRIMINAL PROCEDURE in INDICTABLE OFFENCES. By Sir JAMES FITZ JAMES STEPHEN, K.C.S.I., D.C.L., a Judge of the High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division, and HERBERT STEPHEN, LL.M. 8vo. [In a few days.

THE GOSPEL of the SECULAR LIFE.
Sermons preached at Oxford, with Prefatory Essay.

By the HON. W. H. FREMANTLE,

Canon of Canterbury ; Bampton Lecturer, 1883.

"It is saying a good deal, and much more than a cautious critic would venture to say unless in a very exceptional case, but, nevertheless, it is true, that the truth to say, that the nine sermons which make up 'The Gospel of the Secular Life' are all but unmatched in the whole history of Christian homiletics for originality, breadth, and liberality of thought." — Scotsman.

MOUNT ROYAL.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"'Mount Royal' is a very readable book, and the interest is sustained by the dénouement being left in doubt to the very end of the penultimate chapter."—Times.

"We may say, without hesitation, that Miss Braddon has never employed her great talents to better purpose than in 'Mount Royal.' It is the worthy work of a thorough artist."—Morning Post.

"Miss Braddon has maintained in 'Mount Royal' the standard of her later period."—Athenaeum.

"The story is clearly developed and vigorously written."—Pall Mall Gazette.

"The situations are worked out with so much skill, and the probability of details is so well managed, that the story can be followed with the keenest interest."—St. James's Gazette.

"To return for a last word to 'Mount Royal,' the more we have of Miss Braddon, and the less of Miss Rhoda Dendron and Weeder, the better, in our opinion, for all novel-readers, old and young."—Punch.

HOMESPUN YARNS. By Edwin Coller, many years of the "Essex Weekly News."

"Mr. Coller displays a dramatic power and a direct and simple force in narration that are remarkably akin to the native strength and naive charm of our older ballads. In those of his poems where he has freed himself from the beguiling influence of Barham and Hood, his work may fairly be compared with the best of Wordsworth's early 'Lyrical Ballads.' Such pieces as 'Bessie and I,' 'Not in the Programme,' 'Bodgy,' and 'A Rogue and a Vagabond' are instinct with dramatic art, and are told with unforced humour and genuine pathos."—Academy.

"A collection of rhymed stories, legends, and sketches. The antique ballads are pretty fair, and one or two of them merit a more honourable remark. In his modern sketches, however, Mr. Coller is seen at his best. His quaint pathos is excellent, and his descriptive power is of first-rate quality. 'Bodgy' is one of the typical stories that is sure to be a favourite with reciters."—York Herald.

"Mr. Coller is happiest in his fireside lyrics, like 'Bessie and I'—perhaps the best of the collection—'Bodgy,' and others. He speaks the true language of the heart, and the familiar rough phrases and the swing of the lines bring out the manly spirit and the pathos of the stories. They will be welcomed by all that understand the language of genuine feeling."—Scotsman.

"These poems, for such we shall call them, carry off the palm for free and easy versification. Accurately measured out feet, accents without liberties, the shortest mode of saying what has to be said, render the perusal of the contents of 'Homespun Yarns' a kind of soothing recreation calculated to give pleasure with the least possible exertion. We strongly recommend it to the good graces of the reading world."—Freeman's Journal.

WITH the CONNAUGHT

RANGERS, in QUARTERS, CAMP, and on LEAVE. By General E. H. MAXWELL, C.B., Author of "Griff, Ahoy!" 1 vol., demy 8vo, with illustrations, 1s.

"A soldier in the course of his military career, seen much of the world, taken part in a considerable amount of fighting, and experienced many adventures. He writes in a garrulous fashion, and possesses a truly great fund of animal spirits."—Athenaeum.

"A warm welcome may be proffered for General Maxwell's new work. It is an eminently readable book, quite apart from the special attraction it must possess for all who are, or who have been, connected with the gallant 88th."—Daily Telegraph.

THE FRIENDSHIPS of MARY

RUSSELL MITFORD; as Recorded in Letters from her Literary Correspondents. Edited by the Rev. A. G. LESTRANGE, Editor of the "Life of Mary Russell Mitford." 2 vols., 2s.

LODGE'S PEERAGE and BARONETAGE for 1883.

Under the especial Patronage of Her Majesty. Corrected by the Nobility. Fifty-second Edition. 1 vol., with the Arms beautifully engraved, 3s. 6d., bound, gilt edges.

"This work is the most perfect and elaborate record of the living and recently deceased members of the peerage of the three kingdoms as it stands at this day. We are happy to bear testimony to the fact that scrupulous accuracy is a distinguishing feature of this book."—Times.

THE NEW NOVELS.

MRS. OLIPHANT'S NEW NOVEL.

SECOND EDITION, at all Libraries, in 3 vols.

IT WAS a LOVER and his LASS.

BY MRS. OLIPHANT.

"Author of 'Mrs. Maithland,' &c.

"There is much pleasant descriptive writing in Mrs. Oliphant's new novel, some excellently drawn characters, and a good plot. These are sufficient to make it readable, and the workmanship is throughout firm and thorough. Several of the minor characters are firmly sketched."—St. James's Gazette.

"There are some things in this novel as good as Mrs. Oliphant ever wrote. Of all her best-drawn characters she has painted, we remember none so delightfully as the old maid sister in this book. The loving friendship between Granster and Miss Jean is an exquisite thread in the story, and alone would place it in the first rank."—Academy.

SANGUELAC. By Percy Greg,

Author of "Ivy, Cousin and Bride," &c.

FETTERED yet FREE. By Alice

KING, Author of "Queen of Herself," &c. 3 vols.

"A very readable story. Hope Milwood, the heroine, is a charming type of womanhood."—Morning Post.

"Novel-readers will much to attract them in Miss King's new novel. The story is a mixture of some graceful passages and some attractive characters."—John Bull.

"A powerful plot and one well-drawn character are the redeeming features of 'Fettered yet Free'."—Academy.

A STORY of CARNIVAL. By

MARY A. M. HOPTUS, Author of "Five Chimney Farm," &c. 3 vols.

"Miss Hop-tus has written a good story, which will raise her reputation as a novelist. The descriptive parts are very fresh and spirited, and the characters secure our interest at once: they are lifelike, full of vigour, and clothed in a dignity of their own."—Athenaeum.

"A pleasant book, especially to those who know Rome well enough to follow the author in her animated descriptions. The novel is an excellent one for passing a pleasant hour or two over."—Daily News.
